What will this course cover?

Week 4: Adolescent Development and Current Issues Part I

Goal: Update and enrich the understanding of the adolescent today by looking more closely at current issues in the different dimensions of development particularly focusing on the psychological/affective, cognitive and physiological dimensions of the adolescent. Deepen in the Psychological and Pedagogical backdrop to our Youth work as one of the fundamental guidelines to formation in ECYD.

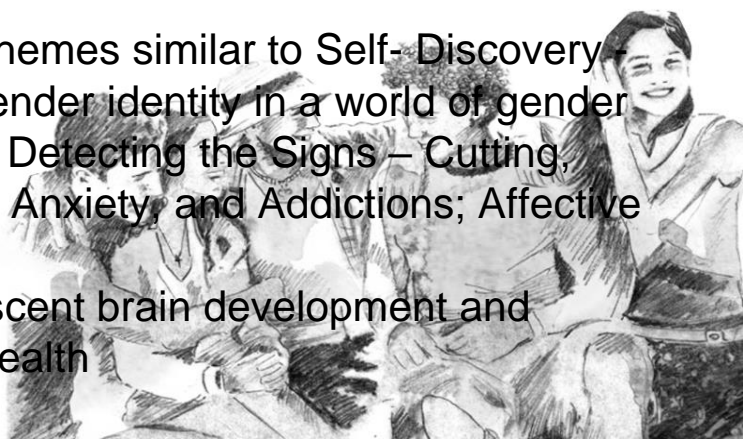

In this third week, we will follow a similar dynamic as lived in Weeks 1-3 that allows everyone to be able to align and deepen their understanding of the adolescent so as to continue reaching the current needs of young people with our charism in the North American Territory. The dynamic will vary to the content imparted but will include conferences, panels, case studies etc.

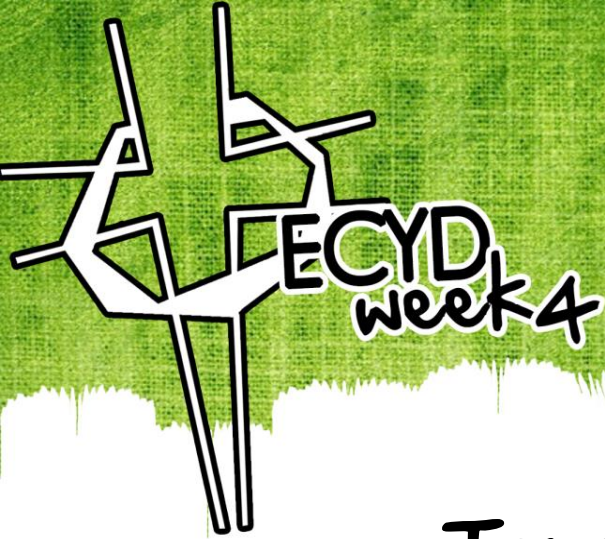

Themes:

Physiological Development: The Biological Element of Adolescent Health

Psychological Development: Themes similar to Self-Discovery - Identity and Self-Worth; Sexual/gender identity in a world of gender confusion, Recognize and Refer - Detecting the Signs – Cutting, Eating Disorders, Depression and Anxiety, and Addictions; Affective Development; etc.
